About Time

Since its introduction, the term "racially aggravated" has been used quite frequently when a white perpetrator is accused of an offence against a non-white victim, but seems to be ignored when the victim is white and the perpetrator black or Asian.

So congratulations to Judge Richard Foster at Luton Crown Court, who acknowledged that when Abdul Ghafoor raped a young white woman, there was to some extent a racial motive". Ghafoor was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Now, let us see all of those Asian paedophiles convicted of the grooming, sexually abusing and raping of young white girls have their crimes recognised of have a racial element and their sentences extended accordingly!

Paedophile Scum

Paedophilia is a cancer in our society. The police, right across the country have, for decades failed to protect our children. So congratulations to the London-based, "Pie and Mash Squad" who have been busy setting up bogus identities of 14 year-old girls on the internet to trap paedophiles who make contact and demand indecent pictures and filthy talk. The Pie & Mash squad then identify the scum and publish their details. On a few occasions, the would-be child abusers have arranged to meet their "victims".

One can only imagine their feelings when instead of a vulnerable 14 year-old arriving at the meeting point, a small group of tough-young men are waiting instead.

Keep up the good work lads!

United We Stand

As we go to print we haven't seen a list of general election candidates from any of the British nationalist parties. Splits in the BNP and NF have severely disillusioned many activists, but we feel sure that there will be candidates from the BNP, NF and Britain First. All will face stiff competition from the phoney patriots of UKIP. What is vital is unity amongst genuine nationalists. If a nationalist candidate from any party is standing in your area, please put party loyalties to one-side and volunteer to help. The future of our country is in your hands.

Join the battle for Britain now!

General Election 2015

OUR BRITAIN

Have We Lost the Battle?

For the first time in living history mass immigration and liberal citizenship rules have given over four million foreign born people the right to vote in this forthcoming General Election. In two London constituencies, East Ham and Brent North the majority of voters were born overseas!

In the East London Borough of Tower Hamlets, where in 1993, Derek Beackon won the first ever council seat for the National Front with 33% of the vote, only 31% of the population is now white. Other London Boroughs where whites are in the minority include, Newham..29%, Brent..36%, Harrow..42%, Redbridge..42% and Barking & Dagenham, where in 2010 the BNP won 13 council seats, the white population has dropped to 49%.

The country that provides the most foreign-born voters in England is India, closely followed by Pakistan and Bangladesh.

Under lax citizenship rules, over two million immigrants have been granted British citizenship since 2000 and some 200,000 applications are approved each year!

Foreign-born voters: Already the majority in two London constituencies

Outside of London, several other constituencies have a large proportion of foreign-born voters including, Leicester East (40%) Birmingham Ladywood (35%) Slough (33%) Leicester South (30%) Luton South (30%) and Bradford West (30%). A further 50 constituencies have a quarter of their voters foreign-born.

Many of these immigrants arrived during the "open-door" policy adopted by the last Labour government.

A recent study shows that 68% of foreign-born voters supported Labour at the 2010 election, perhaps grateful for their ticket to an easier life.

These voter numbers will increase as more and more young immigrants reach the voting age of 18, thus making it almost impossible for Patriotic nationalist parties to win seats in our inner cities.

Although lists of candidates for the forthcoming general election are not available as we go to print, it seems unlikely that there will be a major challenge from British nationalists. UKIP seems most likely to pick up the support of traditional nationalist voters with their anti EU policies and populist immigration proposals, and in any future elections UKIP will be genuine British nationalists' main opponent for an ever decreasing white vote.

Some nationalist have suggested concentrating on local politics, winning Parish Council seats, becoming school governors, and targeting local council seats, but how many people realise that under local election rules, citizens of 54 different countries including those of the Commonwealth are entitled to vote in British local elections if they have an address in Britain?

So what is the way forward for British Nationalism? How can we save our country?

The first move for recovery must be UNITY.

Grassroots activists from the BNP, NF, Britain First, EDL and others, frequently work together as Comrades at rallies and demonstrations, but now it is the party leaders who need to put their egos to one-side and TALK!

Britain faces a massive challenge and time is not on our side. We are in danger of losing the battle for our Race, our Nation and the future of our children.

We need Action NOW!

Government Refuses to Ban Religious Slaughter of Animals

Animal Cruelty Ignored in Favour of "Religious Rights"

The British government have chosen to ignore calls by the British Veterinary Association, the RSPCA, the Farm Animals Welfare Council and the Compassion in World Farming organisation to ban the slaughter of animals that have not been pre-stunned. The practice has been condemned as "extremely cruel" for causing "significant pain and distress to animals".

European law decrees that animals should be unconscious at the time of slaughter, but exemptions are given to Jewish and Muslim communities on the grounds of religious belief.

Animal welfare groups presented a 100,000 plus petition to Ministers demanding a halt to this cruel practice, and were "shocked and disappointed" when the Tory Farm Minister, George Eustice announced that there were "no plans" to halt the practice. He said that the government recognises the rights of Jewish and Muslim communities to slaughter animals "in accordance with their belief" thus putting the religious practices of a minority above cruelty to animals!

The refusal to ban this hideous practice should have come as no surprise following Prime Minister David Cameron's promise made in a speech to the Israeli Knesset last year that he would "maintain exemptions on Animal slaughter on religious grounds"

Obituary

Peter Williams

It was with great sadness that we learned of the recent death at the age of 94, of Peter Williams.

As a teenager just before WW2, Peter was a member of Mosley's BUF youth section. In later years he became a prominent member of the National Front, serving both as the Branch Organiser for Southwark branch, and a member of the National Directorate.

On retirement, Peter and his wife Crystal moved to the picturesque Norfolk village of Potter Heigham.

It was at this time Peter became a subscriber to League Sentinel.

Peter was a highly valued subscriber. He often wrote to us with opinions and suggestions and always added a couple of pounds when renewing his subscription.

Just before Yuletide, increasing ill-health forced Peter to move into a care home. His health continued to deteriorate and sadly Peter died in hospital on the 29th of December.

Although outwardly Peter was a mild mannered man, inside he was a dedicated and determined patriot, who will be missed by all who knew him.

Farewell old Comrade, for you the struggle is over.

Asian Man Convicted of “Racially Aggravated” Rape

The term, “racially aggravated” was introduced into our legal system just a few years ago, and since its introduction it has been used almost exclusively against white criminals. But in what is almost certainly a legal first, at Luton Crown Court, Judge Richard Foster jailed Abdul Ghafoor for life after he had been found guilty of assault by penetration, rape, attempted rape, and assault. Ghafoor, 33, from Bedford, dragged his 20 year-old white victim into undergrowth and subjected her to a three-hour ordeal. At one stage he forced the woman to perform oral sex on him, telling the victim: “you white girls are good at it”.

When sentencing Ghafoor, Judge Foster concluded that “to some extent the offence was racially motivated”.

Judge stops adoption of UKIP man’s son

Britain’s top Family Law Judge, Sir James Munby criticised social workers employed by Labour – controlled Darlington Council who had tried to offer the son of a 25 year-old local man for adoption on the grounds that the father was a UKIP activist and therefore unsuitable to bring up his own son.

One social worker claimed that UKIP had “immoral values and beliefs” another claimed in a report submitted to the court that “the distorted thinking of those within EDL is barbaric and their actions inappropriate. Therefore the mentality of those involved has to be brought into question”.

Sir James Munby, in blocking the adoption, criticised Darlington Social Services accusing them of “social engineering” and reminding them that they were not “guardians of morality”.

Racist Threats Force Woman from her Home

A 25 year-old mother of two children has been forced to move from her newly acquired flat after her front door was covered in faeces and threats of violence were posted through her letterbox.

Sammie Sunter and her sons Harvey and Oscar had only been in their new flat in Willenhall, Coventry for a few days when graffiti and faeces appeared on her front door, accompanied by a note stating “Willenhall is black so f off”, a Nigerian slang word for a white person was also written. Another warning note had a picture of a gun drawn on it.

Sammie Sunter and her family

Her landlords, Whitefriars Housing Association admitted that there had been a “previous incident” at the same address and have now found the family another property.

West Midlands police are treating the attack as a racially aggravated criminal damage and said the incident was being taken “very seriously”. Door to door enquiries have been made and forensic experts are studying the note.

Look Back at History

The Birth of the European Ideal

February 8th 1948

UNION MOVEMENT

When the second European civil war ended in 1945, many thought that the political career of Sir Oswald Mosley was finished. He and his British Union brotherhood had fought a long campaign to prevent war between Britain and her German brothers and had been imprisoned for his efforts. Now, with the war over, and Germany divided, his enemies assumed that Mosley would retire from politics. But it was not to be ...

In post-war Britain, patriotic politics had fragmented into dozens of different groups, often led by former members of British Union. In 1946 Mosley had launched the Mosley Book Clubs and was distributing a new publication, the Mosley Newsletter. On the 15th of November 1947, representatives of fifty-one British patriotic groups attended the Winter Sales Conference of Mosley Publications at the Memorial Hall, Farringdon Street, London. The hall held 1300 people and every seat was taken. One wonders how many of them realised that this was the very same venue that Mosley used fifteen years previously for the inaugural indoor meeting of the British Union of Fascists!

Mosley, as Chairman of Mosley Publications, gave a stirring speech on how Western civilisation was now threatened by Soviet communism and only a strong, united Europe, working with the US as a partner could save our peoples from the Soviet barbarians. National action was not enough said Mosley, "the Union of Europe was now necessary to the survival of every nation in this Continent. From that union would be born a civilisation of continuing creation and unfolding beauty that would withstand the tests of time".

The audience was transfixed. Here was Mosley back with a vengeance, and back with a cause!

One by one, the leaders of the "Big Four" patriotic groups addressed the audience. The Imperial Defence League and the Sons of St George offered their immediate support, and Victor Burgess of the Union of British Freedom offered to merge his organisation with any new group headed by Mosley without reservation. Finally came Jeffrey Hamm of the British League of Ex-Servicemen. Hamm, a former Blackshirt, had led his group into the old British Union heartlands of East London, and had been forced to fight a running battle with Zionist thugs from the 43 Group in order to establish a regular speaking venue in Dalston's Ridley Road market.

Jeffrey Hamm chose to speak from the gallery of the hall, and told the audience of the great struggle for free speech the British League had won for East London. He then offered to merge his organisation into a new movement under Mosley's leadership.

History was being made!

British League of Ex-Servicemen. Founder Members of Union Movement

In the December issue of the "Mosley Newsletter" the leader announced that a new movement, UNION MOVEMENT would begin early in 1948.

He emphasised that "this is not a task which I have sought, but none of us can stand aside while Britain sinks. While we live, we serve"!

Union Movement would be launched with ten founding principles.

THE UNION OF EUROPEAN PEOPLE RESIST COMMUNISM AND FINANCE
 A NEW CIVILISATION AND WAY OF LIFE
 POWER BY VOTE OF THE PEOPLE
 ABOLITION OF THE PARTY SYSTEM
 DEVELOPMENT OF AFRICA AS AN ESTATE OF THE EUROPEAN
 ABOLITION OF CLASS, PRIVILEGE, AND HEREDITARY WEALTH
 HEREDITARY SERVICE IN CREATIVE
 ENTERPRISE
 THE WILL OF THE PEOPLE SHALL PREVAIL
 THE DUTY OF SERVICE

In post-war Britain these principals were radical to say the least, but none could be implemented until power through government had been achieved. Efforts to gain support from European parties were hindered by the British authorities' decision to deny Mosley a passport. This restriction lasted for four years!

Other tactics used to stifle the growth of Union Movement included almost total exclusion from radio (television was not yet available) and the banning of the party from using halls controlled by Labour councils. Street meetings were held and were popular, perhaps because the Zionist 43 Group often tried to disrupt them and usually received a good beating for their troubles. While this spectacle was entertaining for the audiences, it was not the best way to get a political point across!

Despite these obstacles, in just a few years Union Movement grew to having offices in London, Manchester and Birmingham, and had its own drum and flag corps for street activities. In East London, Union Movement produced its own local newspaper. It grew in popularity because of its uncanny ability to uncover juicy scandals in local government. A Union Movement candidate attracted 33% of the vote in Shoreditch, a very credible vote for a candidate in a new party. Marches and rallies regularly drew crowds of several thousands.

In 1962 Mosley attended the Conference of Venice and met with representatives from political parties in Germany, Italy and Belgium to promote the concept of Europe a Nation. It was at this meeting the decision was taken to mount a joint campaign by forming an electoral alliance under the name of the National Party of Europe.

Tens of Thousands Attend a Union Movement Europe a Nation Rally

The conference issued a declaration that pledged while Europe a Nation would have common policies on foreign affairs, defence, finance and scientific development, national governments in each member country would retain full power over social and cultural policies.

Despite well attended public meetings, the idea of Europe a Nation failed to capture mass public support. In the 1966 General Election, Union Movement fought just three seats. Mosley fought East London, Jeff Hamm fought Manchester and that great patriot, Dan Harmston, fought North London. All three fought vigorous campaigns, but no seats were won.

Four years later, in 1970, Union Movement mounted its last ever major election campaign in the Greater London Council elections. As always the major parties had almost unlimited access to television and other media outlets, while Union Movement faced almost a total news blackout. In spite of this media bias, the party still managed to attract over 10,000 votes.

But for Mosley, his political struggle was over. With his wife Diana he moved to France to be nearer to the heart of the Europe that he loved. Sadly, Sir Oswald died in December 1980.

Although Mosley has gone, and Union Movement has gone. But the ideal of Europe a Nation continues with the League of St George and others.

The Spirit Lives ... The Rest Will Follow

Corrupt Degenerate

The sexual abuse of young children in Britain is not a new activity, with some victim's accusations going back several decades. Celebrities such as Jimmy Saville have been exposed, and several media personalities have been jailed for their perverted crimes. Now, several senior former politicians have been accused of abusing and raping children including former Home Secretary Leon Brittan, former Liberal Party MP Cyril Smith and former Treasury Minister, Keith Joseph. The former Labour MP and one-time Chairman of the Jewish Board of Deputies, Greville Janner remains unable to be questioned about allegations of the sexual abuse of a young boy at a Leicester children's home on health grounds. Some current politicians have concluded that there was "in all probability" a paedophile ring operating in and around parliament at that time. A dossier naming 14 MPs involved in child sex abuse was handed to the then Home Secretary Leon Brittan, by Tory MP, Geoffrey Dickens in 1983. The dossier was not investigated at the time, and now has conveniently "gone missing!"

Leon Brittan: Accused of child rape and assisting in a "cover-up".

Leon Brittan was questioned "under caution" last summer after a woman complained to police that Brittan had raped her in 1967. He has also been accused of abusing teenage boys during sex parties at the Dolphin Square apartment complex in Westminster. His accuser, a police protected witness codenamed "Nick" says that Brittan raped him more than a dozen times; starting when he was just eleven years old, and he had witnessed Brittan abusing other boys, all under fourteen years-old over a period of years in the 1980s.

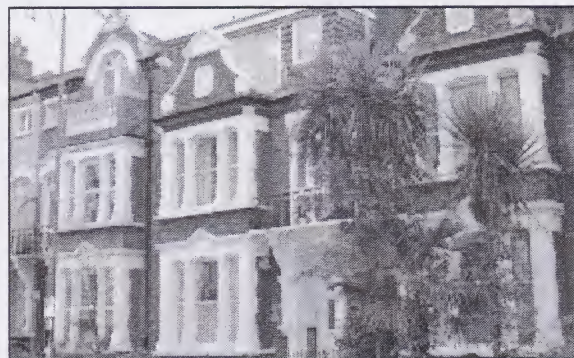

Last month a police spokesman revealed that they found "Nick's" claims of abuse and rape to be "credible and true"! Since the police inquiry started it is believed two more men have come forward to claim that Brittan had raped them when they were teenagers. Police evidence can now show Brittan being present at three separate venues where teenage boys were raped, including the Elm Guest House, in Barnes, West London, where boys were allegedly abused by several high profile establishment figures in the 1980s, including MPs, Ministers, Police Officers and even a Judge!

A police source has also confirmed that Leon Brittan had been caught on camera during a surveillance operation focusing on rent boys and their clients in the Kings Cross area of London.

Shortly after the investigations into Leon Brittan began Mr Brittan died.

His family have decided to have him buried in an unmarked grave.

It also appears that former Liberal MP, Cyril Smith, was arrested several times for sex crimes against teenage boys, and for possessing indecent pictures, but each time the arresting officer was told by a senior officer to drop the case and release Smith from custody. Now London's Met Police has referred itself for investigation by the police watchdog, the IPCC, over 14 allegations of corruption and covering-up sexual abuse cases. Other police forces, such as the Greater Manchester police are also holding investigations of the cover-up of historic child abuse in their area.

Elm Guest House where boys were raped

Accusations of an establishment "cover-up" have not been helped by the decision to extend the remit of investigators to ignore time parameters and include allegations going as far back as they wish. It has been acknowledged that this decision will mean that any conclusion of the investigations could be "years" away.

Paedophile Britain

Paedophile Liberal MP Cyril Smith

Sceptics are also questioning the very recent decision by that bastion of the Establishment, the Home Affairs Select Committee, to ban police naming suspects until they have been charged with an offence.

A simple, but effective way, of protecting the reputations of elite members of the Westminster paedophile gang that have already passed away and cannot be charged. Where is the justice for their victims?

As recently as February this year, it was revealed that an unnamed Minister in the Coalition government is waiting to be questioned by police after a former pupil at the school that he had once worked claimed that the Minister had drugged and sexually abused him when he was just 14 years-old.

It must be hoped that any new investigations serve the victims better than recent investigations into Asian grooming gangs in Rochdale. The four-year long investigation overseen by the Independent Police Complaints Commission focused on the treatment by the Greater Manchester police of dozens of victims of an Asian grooming gang. A total of seven police officers were identified as failing the victims, but NONE of the seven have been disciplined. Predictably victims and parents have condemned the investigation as a "whitewash", and have called for Chief Constable Sir Peter Fahy to resign.

Ten Muslim men were eventually jailed in 2012 for sexual offences against young white girls.

In Rotherham, an investigation into the Labour controlled local council by the Government's Communities Department has condemned councillors for ignoring reports of sexual abuse on white girls, one as young as eleven, by mainly Pakistani grooming gangs. With new victims continuing to come forward, it is estimated over 2000 children have been raped, and tortured by grooming gangs. The National Crime

Agency has launched a criminal investigation into some items raised in the report and some councillors could end up being jailed for perverting the course of justice and misconduct in public office. Councillors consistently covered up allegations by victims. Two councillors have been accused of having sex with victims.

Rotherham: 2000 victims, just FIVE men convicted

As a result of the Communities Department's investigation, South Yorkshire police will now face a separate investigation by the IPCC into allegations it failed in its role to protect victims. It is alleged that police routinely ignored victim's complaints of rape and sexual abuse even suggesting that many of the victims were "little slags". One South Yorkshire officer has been referred to the IPCC for investigation into claims that he passed information to "groomers" and had sex himself with underage girls.

In Oxford, the most British of cities, a police, Serious Crime Review identified over 300 children, some as young as 12, were being abused by gangs of Asian paedophiles. Investigations are continuing.

Paedophilia has for too long been a cancer in our society. Our children are entitled to enjoy their childhood and remain innocent for as long as possible. They are not there to be the sexual playthings of the rich and famous or Asian chicken-shop workers or taxi drivers. There must be "zero-tolerance" to child grooming and abuse. Abusers must be stripped of honours and face long periods of imprisonment. Foreign-born abusers must be deported on completion of their sentences. Those council authorities and police officers who neglected their duty to protect vulnerable children must be brought to account.

Front National Tops Opinion Polls

With French Presidential and Parliamentary elections still almost two years away in 2017, most opinion polls still put the Patriotic, Front National in the lead, with the conservative UMP second, and the current ruling party, the Socialists trailing in third place.

Some local elections are due later this month and will be fought for the first time in newly re-organised regional constituencies. In many areas two constituencies have been amalgamated into one reducing overall the number of constituencies' from 22 to 13 "super-regions".

Current polling puts the FN in the lead with 30%, against the conservative UMP with 28% and the Socialists with 20%.

Although most opinion polls forecast Mme Le Pen would probably win the first round of the 2017 Presidential elections, an election "blok" by her UMP and Socialist opponents could see her Presidential hopes denied.

Marine Le Pen: Support increasing for Presidential campaign.

Mme Le Pen defied extreme-left demonstrators, and addressed the world famous Oxford Union in February. She spoke to a packed chamber, expressing her concerns over EU "open-door" policies on immigration and the effect multi-culturalism was having on our own culture, identity and way of life.

France

France to Compensate U.S. Holocaust Survivors

Despite imposing a swingeing austerity programme on French taxpayers the French government have agreed to pay over $60 million US dollars in compensation to holocaust survivors living in the United States.

The money is to compensate Jews who were deported from France to Labour camps in other parts of German occupied Europe, using the French national railway company SNCF.

A class action claim was launched in the US against SNCF by holocaust survivors, but responsibility was initially denied on the basis that from 1940 the railways were commandeered by the German occupation authorities, and SNCF could not refuse German orders.

However, when survivors groups in the US lobbied to prevent SNCF subsidiaries based in the US from winning contracts in the United States worth up to $6 billion dollars, a compensation offer materialised.

A spokesman for the holocaust survivors said the money could provide payments of "over $100,000 US dollars for survivors, and tens of thousands for widowed spouses".

In addition to the compensation, SNCF has volunteered to pay an additional $20 million over the next five years to holocaust museums, memorials and education programmes.

Anti-Semitism in France has led to a large exodus of French Jews claims Israeli sources.

In 2014, over 7000 Jews left France to immigrate to Israel, with an unknown number also moving to other European countries. French Jews are now the largest group entering Israel.

Germany

Germans "fed up" with Holocaust

A poll conducted by the prestigious, Bertelsmann Foundation discovered that most Germans (81%) want to move on from the Holocaust and put "the history of the persecution of the Jews behind them".

The poll also revealed that 48% of modern Germans have a bad opinion of Israel.

Germans Take to the Streets to Protest against Immigration and Islamisation

Tens of thousands of Germans are taking to the streets every week to protest against the German government's liberal attitude towards growing immigration and Islamisation.

The protests, organised by a new group, Patriotic Europeans Against the Islamisation of the West (PEGIDA) began in the iconic city of Dresden in October 2014, with just 350 people. The marches continued every Monday evening, and within three months attendance had grown to 15,000. Suddenly, an unholy trinity of the authorities, the church and the extreme-left, realised that PEGIDA could be a threat to the established order. Churches condemned the movement as "racist", the extreme-left organised counter-demonstrations, and the state tried to smear PEGIDA as "a mixed group of Neo-Nazis and football hooligans".

PEGIDA march in Dresden

But despite this opposition, attendance at the Dresden marches continued to grow, with over 40,000 young and middle-aged Germans attending the January 12th march. Many carried banners with slogans including, "For the preservation of our culture" and "Germans against Religious fanaticism".

Although PEGIDA are not a political party, they do get support from established parties such as Alternative for Germany (AfD), who won seven seats in the recent European elections and have representatives in three regional parliaments, and also support from the more radical, National Democratic Party (NPD).

The terrorist attacks by radical Muslims in France helped to swell the numbers on the march with many marchers wearing black armbands as a show of solidarity with French citizens.

A spokesman told the media, "it is time for ethnic Europeans to reclaim our birthright ... time we remembered that Germany was our country first, and if people wish to live here they must adapt".

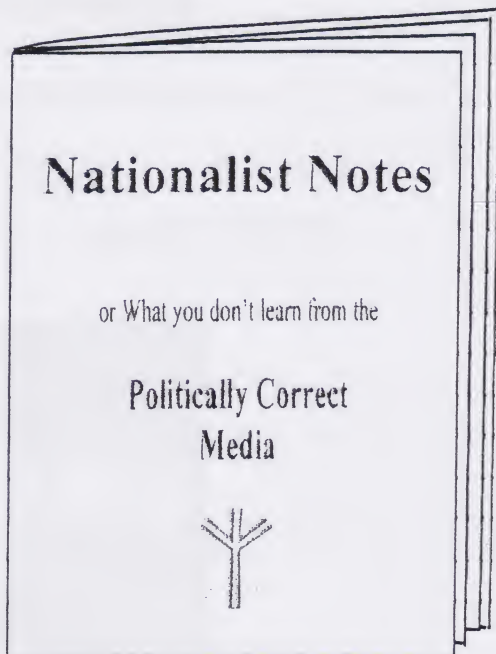

The rate of immigration to Germany jumped by 38% last year, with 70,000 immigrants arriving from Syria alone. Immigration into Germany is now the largest in Europe.

The PEGIDA phenomenon has now sparked copy-cat marches across Germany, with large marches taking place in major cities such as Leipzig, and Darmstadt. A branch of PEGIDA has also been established in Spain, Switzerland, Austria and Scandinavia, and they have also established a Facebook page in the UK.

This new publication contains a wealth of information. It is important because it reassures radical racial nationalists that they are in good company. It shows them that many well respected and admired people share similar if not exactly the same views as they do on immigration, race and even in many cases on Fascism and National Socialism.

Altogether, there are over 70 short case studies, most with photographs. Well known, and not so well known followers of Oswald Mosley's BUF are included. Such as the parents of Audrey Hepburn and also Mary Allen, the founder of the Women's Police Force in Britain. Included in another category are the motor cycle racing champion Fay Taylor and the land and water speed record breaker Malcolm Campbell.

Another category represented are the celebrities like, Roger Daltry, John Cleese, Gary Newman, pop singer Morrissey and ballerina Simone Clark.

Other famous supporters of what are wrongly described as "right wing" views are people like John Wayne and the writer J.R.R. Tolkien. The Duke of Northumberland who led the way in many ways with his newspaper, "The Patriot", is also on the list. Bridgette Bardot is well known but perhaps not Pamela Travers, creator of the Mary Poppins film. Lord Baden Powell of the Boy Scout movement is here along with the Chairman of the Royal British Legion. The list goes on and on. It includes many who visited Germany before the war and were deeply impressed with the great social improvements they saw there. Covered in this category are Lloyd George and King Edward VIII. Many others are those who went to Germany to take part in sporting competitions.

Sir Patrick Moore the astronomer and Martin Bell the broadcaster and even Abraham Lincoln are quoted with favour.

Another group who have their stories told are the dedicated anti-communists. These often come from Eastern Europe but lived in Britain.

Black men too grace the list of honour. Mohammed Ali and Marcus Garvey Junior get a write up.

Church leaders, including the Pope are here too. Many of the personalities mentioned are from the North East of Britain which reflects the locality of the author.

Sometimes readers of the Sentinel may feel they are alone. This A4 book will put the record straight.
